

How Treat Grasshopper Breeding Grounds

The trouble with grasshoppers has now begun to lay its hands from which a swarm of young grasshoppers will hatch next spring. In spite of the splendid work that has been done this year by many farmers, it is obvious that the pest is not yet under control, and that we may have considerable trouble next year unless we bend every effort to hold it in check.

Though there are several species of grasshoppers that have damaged crops around Gleichen this year, the one that has probably done the most damage is that known as the roadside grasshopper. This species does not lay its eggs all over the open prairie, as some people seem to think, but it selects very well defined breeding areas. Last year we found, frequently, as many as two thousand eggs in a single square foot of soil in these breeding grounds. Unfortunately the grasshopper does not select the same places for egg-laying every year, so we are unable to say just where they will be from the experience of this spring. This year, however, we very easily located this time, for they were everywhere in the year, for they are swarming with grasshoppers, many of which are getting very close to the crops. Everywhere, whether be farmer or business man, should keep a sharp lookout during this time for breeding grounds. The farmer on his own farm, and the business men who are motoring through the country, on unoccupied land. On the open prairie breeding grounds will most frequently be found in low places, along trails or in damp depressions where the grass is more green than elsewhere.

On and around these they will be present in confined areas, not along roadsides, closely eaten pastures, fence-rows or old straw piles. There is no breeding on wooded land, unless it has been allowed to become very hard and weedy.

If all of the breeding grounds could be located this fall so that they could be poisoned next spring before the young grasshoppers were able to spread from them, the grasshopper could be practically exterminated before any damage was done.

Everyone is therefore urged to keep a sharp lookout for these breeding grounds, and to report their location to Mr. Hodgman, principal of the School of Agriculture, without delay, so that in the spring they can receive proper attention. These breeding grounds are a menace to the whole district, as much as they are to the farmer on whose land they occur, and it is the duty of everyone to see that they are located, and that the grasshoppers are not allowed to escape from them next year.

Much good can be done now by the use of poisoned bait on these breeding grounds. Fifty pounds of grain and sawdust will make sufficient bait to poison twenty acres, and its application will kill off a large number of the grasshoppers before they are able to lay their second batch of eggs. The effect of poisoning may appear to be a little disappointing at this season of the year, since it is possible that not very many great grasshoppers will be found where the poison has been applied. This is due to the fact that the grasshoppers collect in large numbers in the breeding areas and then fly back to neighboring fields to pass the night. Most of those that have taken poison that was applied to the breeding grounds are too weak on the following day to return, and a careful examination of fields, even at distances of a hundred yards from the place where the poison was applied, will reveal the presence of many killed specimens.

The Gleichen Fair Postponed

Farmers Too Busy Cutting Grain to Prepare Exhibits Just Now

Grain cutting is at least two weeks earlier throughout the Gleichen district this year than usual. During the past week hundreds of farmers started cutting wheat and oats, and by Monday harvesting will be general throughout the country.

At the request of a number of farmers a special meeting of the directors of the Gleichen District Agricultural Association was held here Aug. 6th, when it was decided to postpone the 12th annual exhibition, for which complete preparations had been made to open next Thursday. It was decided to hold the fair the first week in October, when harvesting will be over, it being impossible to do the exact date, as it is necessary to communicate with Edmonton to learn when it would be convenient for the government to send judges to Gleichen. The farmers state it would be impossible for them to stop in the midst of grain-cutting to prepare and bring in their exhibits for the fair at this time, and that if they did bring in the exhibits they would not expect many to stop work to come to see them.

In many parts of this district the grain yield will be better than anticipated a short time ago, and the recent heavy rains proved beneficial in filling up the heads and leavening out the straw. The rains also have materially advanced the hay crop and roots and vegetables; the latter was showing very poorly but now will prove very good. Gleichen has now very little to complain of and will easily sustain its reputation of never yet having experienced a crop failure.

High School Exams.

Show Good Results

The Hon. George P. Smith, Minister of Education, expresses himself as being delighted with the results of the Gleichen High School examination which have just been made public. It is remembered that last year that Mr. Smith issued a statement calling for attention of parents, teachers and pupils alike to the unsatisfactory conditions which prevailed, and called for united effort to get back to regular and hard work. With reference to this year's results Mr. Smith makes the following comments:

"The examination have just completed our labor and the results have been received and passed upon by the Examination Board. The situation presented question that it paid to raise as they were last year. The improvement is shown not only in the other percentages of successful students but also in the appearance and quality of the answer papers. The inspector's report is now almost ready for our high school. They seem to be that all over the province and even more particularly in smaller places, schools, school boards, teachers and students are approaching the work more earnestly and more seriously."

The following comparison between results last year and this year is very striking. In Grade X last year 144 students wrote and 102 of 50 per cent. passed. This year 1272 wrote and 1110 or 72 per cent. passed. In Grade XI last year 392 wrote and 478 or 71 per cent. passed. This year 218 wrote and 438 or 65 per cent. passed. In Grade XII last year 279 wrote and 172 or 61 per cent. passed. This year 262 wrote and 201 or 77 per cent. passed. Grade XIII last year 100 wrote and 100 or 100 per cent. passed. This year 100 wrote and 100 or 100 per cent. passed. The results show a marked improvement in the quality of the work and in the percentage of successful students.

The windmill played havoc at the Agricultural grounds last night, shifting the main building, scattering the statues and blowing the ticket office a block away. At the Agricultural grounds the roof was blown off the barn.

Camping in Comfort

All the comforts of camping, with none of the drawbacks of having to prepare meals, etc., can be enjoyed during a visit to one of the Canadian camps located on Lake Windermere, near Lake Louise, of Lake Windermere, B.C. There appears to be some misunderstanding as to these camps for they do not consist of tents, but of log huts with electric lights for sleeping quarters with a central electric house containing a combination dining and living room and necessary kitchen facilities. There is accommodation in each camp for 50 people and the location is ideal for anyone wishing to enjoy a quiet sojourn in the great outdoors where hiking, riding, fishing, boating, etc., can be indulged in to the heart's desire.

During the last week in July many people took the opportunity of visiting Stubb's & Brown's furniture store to consult Mr. Gleichen's outfit for two years and could not possibly carry on their every day work without them. A man from Calgary stated after being given one year to live, in the old country, he came to Canada for his health. He finally went to New York to consult a specialist and was informed he had foot trouble. After being fitted with a pair of Dr. Stubb's shoes he was able to do his work and he is now as well as possible. He could not replace them. Scores of other Gleichen people have given good praise for the relief they have obtained.

In the evening the second day at Stubb's & Brown's store Mr. Gleichen has an illustrated lecture on foot troubles and those who were not present missed a real treat and a fine opportunity. Stubb's & Brown's are the agents for Dr. Stubb's Foot Trainers and those suffering from the will do well to consult them at once.

In the face of this situation I do not regret that last year the Department voluntarily assumed an unpaid and responsible position. Schools are, after all, primarily institutions of work rather than of entertainment, and the laying of sound foundations of scholarship and of citizenship will not be successfully achieved without the earnest cooperation of all the agencies connected with our schools to retain high standards of effort and discipline and to shed not trifles of amusement.

18 Gleichen High School Pupils Pass Exams.

The following pupils of the Gleichen High School were successful in passing the Departmental Examinations:

Grade IX—Mildred Peterson, Mildred Bolinger, Eliza Wilson, Helen Buchler, Mary Moss, Robert Curlew, Bert Jones and Frank Plante. Grade XI—Ozell Lynn and Effie Johnston.

The people of Gleichen will be pleased to know that of the twenty-one pupils of the Gleichen High School who wrote the Departmental Examinations this year, eighteen were successful in passing, and of the three that failed two had been taken on trial and though not able to make the grade have, nevertheless, done fairly good work. This satisfactory result is well for the Gleichen teachers.

Rev. Father Simonin left Sunday for Edmonton, and it is expected he will be given charge of another church somewhere in the north. He came to Gleichen thirteen years ago and during his stay here built St. Victor's Church here in town and had nearly completed a church at Ouelletville when it was burned to the ground last Christmas, but a start is to be made shortly to rebuild this church. All who know him intimately hold him in the highest esteem and wish his removal from Gleichen is very much regretted his friends hope it will be a decided advantage to himself.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 10, 1921

There are still grasshoppers in great numbers in every part of this district, and while they may not do as much damage as a few weeks ago the wise farmer will keep after them until all are destroyed. Some complain that they have spent a great deal of time and money their neighbors have done little or nothing to extinguish these pests, and also complain that owners of vacant land do nothing. This is unfair and it would seem that it is now about time the government took steps necessary to compel each person to do their share in ridding the country of the grasshoppers.

The postponing of the Gleiche Fair until after harvest seems to meet with the general approval of the farmers, who are really the people most interested, and we may expect that they will do their best to make it the success it should be on whatever date the government can supply the judges. Not only would it be a hardship on the farmer to stop cutting grain to prepare their exhibits, but it is very doubtful that many would cease work to attend the fair at so busy a season.

It is most difficult to select a date for the exhibition and Gleichen has tried eleven different dates, ranging from August to October. This year it was though August 11th would be ample time before harvesting operations would start, but harvesting started much earlier than usual—evidently an appeal will have to be made to Foster or Hatfield.

Mild-eyed bossy and all her relatives have been enjoying some great feasts about town. In late in cleaning up nice gardens of every variety of vegetables and chewing up trees, etc. Bossy has had many a fine meal, both early and late. And she never seems to worry. Even though some of our most respected citizens came out at mid-night in ghost-like apparel, she bare-footed on a tack or two, throw an axe or pitchfork at bossy accompanied by yells that do not look well in print, bossy merely dodges, shakes her head, grabs another bite, and makes for the next nearest garden—no bossy don't worry.

But, alas! her garden feeds are doomed. On request the Town Council has prepared a brand new by-law that prohibits the running at large of domestic animals within the town of Gleichen. No more will bossy roam our streets, eat vegetables and trees or break into warehouses. No more will the ladies side-step carefully on the walks. No more will busy man slip, slide, fall and curse. Someone is always taking the joy out of life.

Again we hear the cry of hard times. This cry comes periodically. It is thought of as something unavoidable—as a disaster—like a storm, an earthquake, a famine, a pestilence. We speculate as to its cause, but feel as helpless to avoid its coming or to stop it after it has come as we do the earthquake, storm or famine—all we do is wait, although it is more disastrous all these combined. All others keep man busy protecting themselves from them. But hard times mean no work, no food, no clothes no shelter no hope. It results in disease and death, in broken up homes, in robbery and murder. It results in rebellion and revolution with all the terrors that usually go with them.

If there were not enough land to raise the foodstuff necessary for the population then there would be a reason for hunger.

If there were not enough fuel on earth to keep us all warm then there would be a reason for being cold.

If there were not building material sufficient to build us all comfortable homes, then there would be a reason for some of us being improperly housed.

But there are millions of acres producing nothing, millions of cords of wood unused, millions of tons of coal unmined, and untold wealth of material for building purposes undeveloped.

Millions of people have been working taking all these things from their natural conditions and converting them to useful things for themselves and others.

But millions have been told to stop doing this, and these millions have stopped. These millions have shown their willingness and ability to do the work. They show their willingness by wandering from factory to factory all day long asking the privilege of resuming work, but they are denied.

Gleichen Call:

With your permission I would like to draw the attention of the public to the fact that the Great War Veterans' Association of Gleichen had nothing whatsoever to do with the conduct of an (imported) returned man at the U.P.A. political meeting of July 16th.

I would hate to think that any association would use a returned man as a camouflage for a political meeting, and further to think, if anyone locally of a grudge against Mr. Buckley, that he had not nerve enough to meet on face to face and tell him so.

As the man I know Mr. Scott to be, I don't hesitate for a moment to say that he would not have allowed such conduct against his opponent.

Thanking you for a small space.

ALL the various elements of exceptionally high value in the Hupmobile go directly back to the way the car is built.

Practically every important production operation and process is performed in Hupmobile factories by Hupmobile workmen of skill and long training, or under our own close control and supervision.

Thus, Hupmobile manufacturing development and improvement have full sweep. They are individual to this car, and are entirely free from outside influences which might hinder or hamper.

This being so, it is easy to see why the Hupmobile is so superior in performance, and economy, and long life; and why it is regarded by buyers, and the public at large, as such an unusually good value.

Secretary R. H. Brown reports that all accounts have been paid and Chautauqua this year has come out on the right side of the ledger. He desires to convey the thanks of the committee to all who assisted in bringing about this happy result and special thanks to those who assisted in the erection of the tent, seats, etc., and their removal. The Call is of the opinion there is more credit due Mr. Brown than any other individual in making Chautauqua a success this year. His efforts were untiring and inspired others to greater efforts.
